Investments held to maturity

Investments held to maturity are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or identifiable payments and have a fixed maturity that the Bank intends and is able to hold until maturity, except:

- financial assets that at the time of initial recognition were classified as being identified at fair value through the statement of results of operations;
- financial assets that have been classified as ready for sale; and
- Financial assets meet the definition of loans and receivables.

Loans and receivables

Loans and receivables are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or identifiable payments and are not listed on the market, except:

- Amounts that the Bank intends to sell immediately or will sell in the near future are classified as assets held for business purposes and amounts that at the time of initial recognition are classified by the Bank as being classified at fair value through the statement of results of operations;
- Amounts classified by the Bank as ready for sale at the time of initial recognition; or
- Amounts that the Bank may fail to recover most of the value of the original investment, not due to a deterioration in credit quality, and are classified as ready for sale.

Financial assets available-to-sale

Available-to-sell financial assets are non-derivative financial assets that are determined to be available for sale or are not classified as:

- Loans and receivables;
- Investments held to maturity; or

 - created primarily for the purpose of short-term acquisition;
 - There is evidence of trading in such instruments for the purpose of short-term profits; or
 - is a derivative financial instrument (except for derivative financial instruments that are defined as a financial guarantee contract or an effective hedging instrument).C296
- At the time of initial recognition, the Bank classifies financial liabilities into a group determined by fair value through the statement of operating results.

Financial liabilities are determined according to the allocated value

Financial liabilities that are not classified into the group of financial liabilities determined according to fair value through the statement of business results will be classified into the group of financial liabilities determined by the allocation value.

The above classification of financial instruments is for the purpose of presentation and explanation only and does not aim to describe the method of determining the value of financial instruments. The accounting policies on determining the value of financial instruments are presented in other relevant notes.
